Art Unit: 1782

Claims 12,15 and 16 are rejected under 35USC112, 2nd para. as being indefinite.

Claims 12,15, and 16 lack antecedent basis in the words/phrases “the bottom wall” (claims 12 and 15), and “the body” (claim 16).

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 11,12,13 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Planet (WO 00/41936).

In regard to claim 11, Planet discloses a container comprising a sidewall having a top end and a bottom end, the sidewall tapering outwardly as it extends from the top end to the bottom end, a protrusion formed at the bottom end (e.g., fig. 7), the protrusion extending about the bottom end and forming an outwardly extending shoulder, a lid or closure (#5) (i.e., the recited “bottom”) sealing the bottom end of the sidewall, the lid or closure separately formed from the sidewall and having an outermost free edge, wherein the lid or closure fits within the protrusion and the outermost free edge contacts an inner surface of the sidewall. This is all that claim 11 positively recites. In regard to claim 12, Planet discloses that the lid or closure can be heat sealed (i.e., “thermosoudé”). In regard to claim 13, Planet discloses a closure (e.g., #3 in fig. 7) at the top end of the sidewall. In regard to claim 15, Planet discloses that the lid or cover is planar as evidenced by fig. 7.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 1782

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 14 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Planet ('936) in view of Valyi ('617) and Fox ('930).

Claims 14 and 16 respectively recite that the container closure comprises a pre-punched tab and the body is a truncated pyramid or cone. The particular conventional closure and the particular conventional shape one chooses to employ are seen to have been an obvious matter of choice and/or design. In any case, both Valyi and Fox, as noted previously, teach the conventionality of closures comprising a pre-punched tab and container bodies that are truncated pyramids or cones. Planet himself discloses even discloses other container body shapes including pyramid shapes ("pyramidales"). To modify Planet and substitute one conventional closure structure for another and one conventional shape for another would therefore have been obvious.

All of applicants remarks filed 3/3/10 have been fully and carefully considered but are seen to be moot in view of the new ground of rejection, necessitated by the amendment filed 3/3/10. It is noted that to provide a container containing either an upper opening or a lower opening with an outwardly projecting protrusion in the sidewall so that an inner ledge or surface is formed in the sidewall which then receives a lid to seal off the opening is notoriously conventional in the art. For example, Fox ('930) shows this expedient at the upper opening (e.g., Fig. 3); Hartman ('378) at the bottom opening (e.g., fig. 1); Porter ('157) at the bottom opening (fig. 1); Duboc ('352) at the bottom opening (e.g., fig. 1), Nakazato et al ('266) at the bottom opening (e.g., fig 10); and Ketting ('231) at the bottom opening (e.g., fig. 7).

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
